A trusted network for dialogue, practical biodiversity criteria, and sector-wide collaboration

Why Food Standards Should Join Food for Biodiversity

Benchmark Your Standard

Compare your requirements against the Basic-Sets, identify opportunities for further development and learn from the experiences of other standards.

Implementing Biodiversity in Supply Chains

Shape the implementation of our Basic-Sets in food supply chains and contribute to Food for Biodiversity's Roll-out Strategy.

Food System Network

Connect with retailers, food companies, producers, NGOs, researchers and fellow standards at educational events, networking meetings, member gatherings, and conferences.

Shape Biodiversity Criteria

Contribute your ideas to the continuous development and revision of our Basic-Sets and biodiversity requirements for the food sector.

Market Insights

Gain insights into biodiversity expectations of food companies and retailers and understand how biodiversity requirements are evolving in supply chains.

Increase Your Visibility

Present your organisation and biodiversity work to retailers, food companies and other members through webinars, conferences and member events.

Who We Are

Food for Biodiversity

Food for Biodiversity is a German multi-stakeholder association that brings together food companies, retailers, standard-setting organisations, NGOs and scientific experts to develop biodiversity protection in agricultural supply chains. Through collaboration, dialogue and practical guidance, we support the development and implementation of biodiversity requirements. Together, we are building a stronger foundation for biodiversity in food and agriculture.
